

SISA Speaking at Information Security and Risk Management Conference, Las Vegas, USA

ISACA, a nonprofit association serving 86,000 IT governance professionals, will host the Information Security and Risk Management Conference in Las Vegas, Nevada, USA, on 28-30 September 2009. The all-encompassing event is designed for all levels of IT security professionals. Mr. Dharshan Shanthamurthy, the Chief Consultant at SISA has been invited to speak in this most coveted event.

"IT professionals need to ensure that their enterprise's security infrastructure is effectively protecting its valuable information assets while efficiently managing risks," said Kent Anderson, CISM, member of ISACA's Security Management Committee. "This challenging balancing act requires that IT professionals understand the latest issues and remain current in training and education."

This conference will build on and include the key elements of information security management practices and information security practices. The conference will cover related business, program and technical issues and the impact of risk management.